A MAGAZINE

THE michele quattrin approach

to photography

Michele takes a natural approach to creating heirloom imagery for individuals and families. I love to photograph you in real, meaningful settings that convey the essence of who you are and what you love. I work hard to make sure the entire process is stress-free for you from start to finish, with the end result being beautifully crafted photo prints and products to be treasured for many years to come.

mQn Photography has been taking professional portraits since 2009 for a wide variety of clients. Many of the people I photograph have become my friends for years to come. I completely and absolutely love what I do!

THE before, during, and after OF A SESSION

If you're wondering what to expect from your time with mQn Photography, look no further! I specialize in creating a personalized experience for you and your family that's fun and meaningful. Although the goal of working together is to create wonderful images, I also strive to make the process of getting there enjoyable and memorable! Here's how it works.

questionnaire

Every session begins with an initial questionnaire so I can get to know your family. Answer the best you can. I want to learn more about you and your family and your goals for the portrait session. I also encourage clients to e-mail me with any questions and ideas.

booking the date

Once you've decided on the right photography session for your family, we'll go ahead and get the date booked! We'll work with your schedule to find a perfect day and time for the session! Most sessions are scheduled within two hours of sunset or mid day if scheduling an in home session.

taking pictures

On the day of your session, we'll meet at the agreed location and time and start snapping away! A portrait session can take anywhere from 1-2 hours. There's really no rush - or general time limit - just what feels natural. It generally takes at least 30 minutes for us to "warm up" together, meaning getting comfortable and feeling relaxed in front of the lens. After that, it's really up to the photographed subject as to how long the session will last. This is the fun part - let me do the work!

on-line ordering session

The photos have been taken, individually re-touched with great love and care, and now it's time for you to see the end result of all our hard work and planning! Two weeks after your session you will be shown appx. 25 images through an online password protected gallery. At this point in time, you'll have the opportunity to choose the photographs you would like to have as prints, albums, canvas, or a variety of other handcrafted photo products I offer. I will attach a product guide to the e-mail with your password for viewing. You will have 1 month to ask questions, place orders, and be excited about your images.

IDEAS & INSPIRATION:

choosing your location & picking props

choosing a location

The location of your photoshoot can be anywhere - from your bedroom to a nearby park or restaurant. At mQn Photography I believe the most important factor in choosing a location should be its emotional value to you and your family. Being in the same spot something wonderfully memorable happened in the past can evoke strong emotions and great moments in front of the lens (think first kiss, a special "I love you" moment, first date, etc.). Natural settings, such as parks and wilderness, can create beautiful backdrops for photographs. If you prefer your photoshoot indoors, rooms with big windows and lots of light are always a great choice! For more information on locations please check out my location guide!

Props are any kind of object or item included in photographs. In general, props can add detail, interest, and meaning to your images, especially when they hold sentimental value to you or your family. Ideas include hats, baby blankets or wraps, love letters, heirloom furniture, a vintage dress handed down in the family, old photographs, handkerchiefs, shoes, a suitcase, travel souvenirs, or anything else that's close to your heart. I love working with props; if you have questions or need ideas, just ask!

IDEAS & INSPIRATION:

session themes

Depending on the age of your children and what you'd like to accomplish in your photo session, we have a wide variety of session themes and ideas to offer you! If you'd like to come up with a unique session theme for your family or child, we'd love to get creative with you! Here are a few popular ideas based on experience with past clients.

newborn 1-14 days old

Newborn sessions capture your precious baby just days after their arrival. I take a more natural approach to sessions. Lifestyle sessions focus on baby in his natural surroundings, non-posed, sometimes with Mom and Dad in the photos as well. Naturally posed is an option but baby takes the lead at these sessions as well.

happy baby up to 1 year

Baby sessions can be loads of fun and loads of work for everyone, but these sweet photos will quickly become family heirlooms! Baby sessions can be in a variety of themes, styles, and locations - anything from in-the-nude on a soft wool rug to costumes in the outdoors! Props, cute outfits, and interesting locations are welcomed.

outdoor explorer toddler

For children a bit older, outdoor exploration sessions are a perfect way to capture your child's personality. Fall sessions are a great time to get out and choose a fabulous field, trail, or lake location. Or stick with a fun urban location and keep the bugs at bay. Adventures await in any location during the fall. Outdoor explorations prevent mid-session tantrums by allowing your child to set the pace of the shoot.

stylized all ages

Tea Parties, Super Heroes, Circus Performers, Lemonade Stands etc. are becoming very popular themes and great ways for little one's to express their imaginations. Imagine your adorable child having a fun play date - and getting photos to document it all! Curious faces, giggles, smiles, and costumes make these images unforgettable. The new studio location is perfect for themed indoor fall sessions when it's too cold to go outside.

IT'S THE DAY OF MY SESSION

what, exactly

should I expect

If this is your family's first time working with a professional photographer, it can be difficult to know what to expect. What should I bring? Will there be enough time to get the perfect picture? Will my child feel uncomfortable in front of the camera? I completely understand these feelings of concern; you are not alone! I am here to work for and with you to make your session as stress-free as possible. Remember, this is supposed to be fun!

My method of working is simple: I tailor my photography to you and your family. Each session is a unique experience, built from the ground up just for you. In our initial consultation, we'll discuss things like the family schedule, favorite locations, and attention spans to make your photo day a smashing success. This is your day to relax and enjoy your family; I'll do the rest!

scheduling

Planning in advance is the key to success! Sessions are scheduled within two hours before the sunsets which in the fall happens quite early and comes earlier and earlier as the days go by. Mornings might be a great alternative since kids are up early anyway and might work better into your schedule. Morning outdoor sessions are scheduled an hour after the sun rises. I am here to make your session a success, and will work with you individually to find a time and place that fits the family! If an outdoor session is out of the question because it's too hot or too cold or too many bugs; then you may want to consider an indoor lifestyle session in your home or a studio session both of these types of sessions are scheduled mid-day.

weather

If we've chosen an outdoor location for your photos, we will most likely be at the mercy of the weather! If the day turns out to be extremely hot, which can be dangerous and frustrating for the family, we'll find an alternate date for the photos. Similarly, for rainstorms, windstorms or extreme cold, I'd rather reschedule than push everyone into an uncomfortable place! I will be in communication the day before and day of the session to discuss any challenges that may arise and deal with them in the most convenient way possible for your family.

taking it slow

Children are unpredictable - a characteristic that makes them so lovable - but also difficult to plan around. It's something we completely understand! For this reason, we always carve out a large chunk of time to make sure your session isn't rushed. If baby needs to be changed or fed, take your time. If a toddler is getting tired or frustrated, we can take a snack break to relax and regroup. If you and your family are feeling uncomfortable or exhausted, we can pause for a drink of water and a rest in the shade. This is your photo session and we'll work at the pace of you and your family! There's no need to rush - just relax and enjoy the experience.

safety first

When working with babies and children, safety is my first priority. When I photograph babies and newborns, I ask that mom and dad stay at arm's length to make sure baby's kept safe and sound under all circumstances. When planning an outdoor, on-location shoot with kids, I make sure the site is safe and suitable for children ahead of time. If there's any question as to whether or not a location, pose, or prop is safe for your family, I always err on the side of caution. And if mom or dad feel uncomfortable with the situation, I'm happy to find alternatives to make sure everyone is kept out of harm's way.

keeping it positive

It can be difficult to get kids to cooperate in the best of circumstances, and many times they may feel uncomfortable with a photographer they don't know well in an unfamiliar place. I work hard to get those perfect poses, but never with negative reinforcement or discipline. I use only positive, confidence-boosting methods to gain your child's trust and cooperation during the photoshoot, and ask parents that they do the same. I find that the best photographic results come from using the carrot rather than the stick!

IDEAS & INSPIRATION:

how to dress the FAMILY

One of the most frequently asked questions from clients is what to wear on the day of the photo-shoot! I've put together this guide based on current trends as well as my own experience with what looks great on camera. If you have any questions or ideas of your own, we'd love to hear them! The process of planning and shopping for outfits should be one of your favorite parts of the photography experience. Even if you can't find these outfits use the color schemes to help guide you.

Ways to Always Look Fantastic in Photos

ON THE BLOG

From school yearbooks to friends' weddings, we've all been in front of camera at some point or another and if you've recently looked at a photo with disdain then this post's for you. If you know that you're going to have a lens pointed in your direction in the near future, below are six simple ways to get better results.

1. Get to Know Your Face. This applies to professional photoshoots as well as every day photos. Take time getting to know your face, how to smile naturally and which side or angle of your face you like better.
2. Easy on the makeup. While an evening out is a different story when it comes to makeup, if you're having headshots, family or maternity photos taken, go easy on the makeup. You want some basic coverage but don't overdo it. You should also only stick to accentuating one part of your face so choose either your eyes or lips but not both.
3. Facing the camera. Your photographer will help you when it comes to posing for photos but in general you shouldn't be facing the camera head on. Positioning your body at an angle always makes for better photos.
4. Controlling your chin. Photos where your neck is elongated and your chin is pushed slightly forward will lift your face and give it a more angular look. You might want to practice this beforehand in order to get used to it.
5. Pick your outfit carefully. Put some thought into what you'll wear to your shoot. Pair bold designs and patterns with solid colors to avoid too much distraction. You should also pay attention to the fit and shape of your outfit. Make sure it compliments you and that you feel comfortable.
6. Use lighting to your advantage. This is something that your professional photographer will be an expert at but the right lighting can mean the difference between that wow factor and disappointment. Avoid standing directly under a light as this will create weird shadows on your face. This is something we will help you out with because we are experts so take our advice when we suggest a specific time for photos. If shooting outdoors, the best light will be 15-20 minutes before & after sunset. Unless it's an overcast day, we will always try to get you in full shade so that the lighting isn't dappled or causing weird shadows on your face.

As much as the above tips will help you during your professional photo session, always remember to have fun and relax as this will do wonders for your photos.

VENDORS I

absolutely adore

Simple goes a long way! I like to keep the focus on the subject; therefore, simple clothing choices are best for creating timeless portraits. For trendier and more modern images, I recommend having textures whether it be hats or other accessories such as scarves or funky belts. If children are being photographed together, clothes that are similar in style give a more coordinated look. I highly suggest clothing for each family member have the same tone, not necessarily the same color. Here are some recommended shops that have adorable outfits that can really pull your session together.

BOUTIQUE

MATILDA JANE

Super cute original clothing is great for girls AND moms! Kristine Hubbard is a local Twin Cities trunk keeper. kristineh@matildajane-clothing.com

PERSNICKEYTY

Girls clothing with a whim. A lot like MJ but can be bought online or at boutique sellers. LOVE!

MAINSTREAM

CREWCUTS

can be on the pricey side, but this store has great modern styles and colors for boys and girls. jcrew.com

JANIE & JACK

try to be careful with being too matchy match here but you can find great coordinating outfits for boy/-girl siblings.

MINI BODEN

great use of colors, stripes & plaids. The clothes are beyond adorable and hip. bodenusa.com

JUST A LITTLE

lovin' from past clients

My husband it not a man of many words or easy toward spending money. However your photos of our children prompted a response I'll never forget. After viewing the slideshow complete with music I asked if he liked his Christmas gift. He responded that it's the best gift he's ever gotten.

Please keep in mind anything that is brought to the photoshoot may be in your pictures so choose wisely.
